Investors in the Orion/Monetta Intermediate Bond Fund May Receive 5% Annually in College Tuition Credits

WHEATON, IL- June 5, 2009-Orion Capital Management Inc., and Monetta Financial Services, Inc., have partnered with SAGE Scholars to offer shareholders of the Orion/Monetta Intermediate Bond Fund (NASDAQ: MIBFX) college Tuition Rewards that allow fund shareholders to earn annually 5% of their account value in college tuition credits. These credits are deposited into a Tuition Rewards account, do not affect the investment account, and may be applied to over 230 participating private colleges and universities nationwide. The tuition credits never expire, are non-taxable, do not affect financial aid, and may be used by anyone in the shareholder's family eg. children, grandchildren, stepchildren, nieces and nephews.

"This program is an effective way for fixed-income investors to invest in an intermediate bond fund while accumulating college tuition credits that can offset up to 25% of annual college tuition cost at participating colleges," says Bob Bacarella, Monetta's President. "It doesn't cost shareholders anything to participate in the program and, if used, could significantly reduce future college tuition cost." Shareholders can register any family member under 16 years old to use the tuition credits and may be redeemed as a "scholarship" - capped at one full year's tuition spread over four years."

George Palmer, of Orion Capital Management says, "We are pleased to be part of this innovative scholarship program. This is an added investment benefit for our investors that could amount to a large reduction in future college tuition cost."

The Orion/Monetta Intermediate Bond Fund (NASDAQ: MIBFX) invests at least 70% of its net assets in fixed-income notes and bonds rated in the three highest investment grade categories as rated by Moody's or S&P.
